

Dr Ravi Sundaram is a Development Scientist at Oxford Instruments Nanotechnology tools. He has been involved in 2d materials research in several institutions such as EPFL, Switzerland, Max Planck Institute Stuttgart, Germany, IBM Watson Research Labs, NY. He was conferred a PhD in Physics in 2011 and moved to Cambridge university as a research fellow before joining Oxford Instruments in March 2014 where he leads and coordinates the research and development in the area of 2D materials and heterostructures.

